Property Taxation Required by Law!

Property values are not stationary. They change dramatically with depreciation, inflation and in market changes due to desirability or lack of appeal of the property. State law requires county assessors to analyze and update property records on an annual basis. This means that your value may go up or down slightly in any given year. If your value increases, you will receive a notice from the Assessor's Office. If you disagree with the value, you should contact the Assessor's Office and please provide evidence to support your position. If we cannot reach an agreement you may appeal to the Equalization Board which meets during the protest season conducted by the County Clerk.
